VALLOW READY FOR BATTLE

By: Justin Swackhamer

After the Rhinos' disappointing loss in the championship game last season, no one on the Rochester squad was more ready for the start of the 2007 season than goalkeeper Scott Vallow.

"This is going to be a great season," said the veteran keeper. "It's an exciting time because it's a little bit of an unknown. We have a huge challenge in front of us, playing nine of our first 11 games on the road, and it's going to be a really good character test for us."

The Rhinos' captain prepared well for that test all winter. He says that there are a few key goals that he sets for each offseason. One of those goals is staying in shape.

"The main goal in the offseason is to remain fit, so when you come into preseason camp, you haven't been sitting on the couch eating potato chips for five months," said Vallow who enters his sixth season with the Rhinos in 2007. "It's a tough challenge, you want to take a break mentally."

"It was important for us to have a good break and not only heal our bodies, but also our minds, and refocus on the job we have going on here. The job is to come back and win one extra game this year."

The Rhinos began what they hope will be a run at the franchise's fourth championship in late March with a preseason tournament in Puerto Rico. The USL-MLS Challenge included MLS powerhouses the Los Angeles Galaxy and FC Dallas. The exhibition tourney was hosted by the USL First Division's Puerto Rico Islanders in Bayamon, Puerto Rico.

The Rhinos were defeated in their match against the Galaxy by a score of 3-2. Rochester led L.A. 2-0 at the half, but three second-half goals by the Galaxy upended their efforts.

Rochester went on to drop a 2-0 decision to Dallas two days later, despite generating several good scoring chances early in the match. Despite going 0-2 against MLS teams in the preseason, Vallow says that the matches were a good preseason measure for the Rhinos.

"It was a good challenge for us," he said. "Certainly, we want to win every game, but I think the important thing was to really assess our team against a quality opponent, so we could find out where we're strong and where we're weak. You get a little bit of a better idea of these things when you play teams that are better than you. You're talking about MLS teams that were a couple weeks away from their season starting when we played them, and you're talking about a Rhinos team that was literally in their first day of training camp, so it was a huge challenge."

Teams located in warmer climates have the luxury of starting their preseason earlier than teams in the northern portion of the United States. Vallow says that Rochester's later starting date for preseason really has no effect on the team's ability to prepare for the regular season.

"We want to make sure that we play the longest, not necessarily start the earliest," he said.

The Rhinos played the longest last season, but came up short in the USL First Division Championship Game, as the Vancouver Whitecaps defeated Rochester by a score of 3-0 at PAETEC Park. Vallow says that after the way that last season ended, the Rhinos owe some payback to the 'Caps this season.

"Vancouver is going to be in the top three at the end of the season," Vallow said. "We get to play them early, which is little bit better for us. We'll catch them off guard before they get their game going too strong."

"We were pretty well embarrassed last year and that's certainly something that we don't care to feel again. We kind of feel that we owe them something to make things right."

The Rhinos' time to make things right will come soon enough, as they will look to once again reach the championship as they did one season ago. This year, the returning players will have one more season of experience and an added hunger after falling just short of a league title in 2006.

When he is not trying to win championships over the summer, Vallow is running his Train Like a Champion Goalkeepers & Strikers camp, which he conducts with fellow Rhino Matthew Delic te over the offseason. In addition to his camps and academy, he gives private one-on-one lessons three times a week.

The only thing soccer takes a backseat to for the popular Rhino, is his family. Vallow and his wife, Lindsay, have a one-year-old son, Brayden, who continues to amaze his mother and father each day.

"He gives me a good break. You don't really think about soccer or whatever else is going on when you're dealing with a one year old."

His wife and son are his family through love, marriage and birth, but Vallow has another family that is also very special to him: the Rhinos fans.

"The fans are the heart of this organization. Without the dedicated fans that this Rochester club has, this club couldn't function. This club wouldn't have a brand new stadium and a competitive team year in and year out if it weren't for the fans. I think the one thing that has been a constant throughout my career as a Rhino is the quality of support that we have always gotten from the fans."

"I wouldn't choose a different coach to go into battle with, and I wouldn't choose a different team to go into battle with. It's a good group of guys that we have this season, and I'm looking forward to attempting to bring a championship to Rochester this year."

Rhinos fans, the battle has begun.

Brewing a Tradition

JW DUNDEE'S ALES & LAGERS

are proudly crafted in Rochester, New York with the same tradition and spirit that made Upstate New York a vibrant hub of agricultural commerce in the bountiful 19th century.

Rochester is steeped in a rich brewing history with legendary names like Bartholomay, Cataract and Genesee. This proud heritage springs from an era when horse-drawn packet boats brought prosperity from New York City to Buffalo and beyond by way of the Erie Canal. It was a time when the mighty Genesee River was harnessed to power the barley and wheat grist mills that famously made Rochester "The Flour City".

Today, the exceptional family of JW Dundee's Ales & Lagers are carefully crafted on the very site that so many fine ales and lagers have been brewed for over 125 years.

The JW Dundee family began with Honey Brown Lager, introduced at the height of the craft brewing resurgence of the early 1990's by then brewery head Jack "JW" Wehle. A full bodied lager brewed with natural honey from Wixon's Farm in Dundee, New York, Honey Brown was an overwhelming success that defied definition as a style.

The JW Dundee family of ales and lagers has grown under the skillful guidance of Brewmaster Dave Schlosser and his team of dedicated brewers. To enjoy a masterfully crafted Dundee's American Pale Ale, American Amber Lager or outstanding seasonal selection is to experience the rich craft brewing heritage of New York State.

A STEADY HAND AND A TRUE SHOT

By: Justin Swackhamer

As a defender, the Rhinos' Kenney Bertz does not get the opportunity to take many shots on net. He had 11 during the entire 2006 season and took just five cracks at the goal in his senior year at Maryland University in 2005. Although he may not get the chance to deliver many balls toward the net during the season, he takes the opportunity to shoot a good deal throughout the offseason. His shots are not taken with soccer balls, however, and they are not propelled with his feet. Bertz spends his offseason hunting deer and elk.

The Rhinos central d-man has been hunting now for nearly 10 years, but he never has had to worry about going out into the fields alone. Hunting for the Bertzs is a family affair. It always has been.

"I thought it would be something great to do with the boys," said Ken Bertz, Kenney's father. "In all actuality, I had no experience prior to our first outing."

Ken, who grew up in southern Cal, explained that he had never even considered hunting while growing up, because the area is not very conducive for it.

"I thought it would be something the boys would enjoy," said Ken, who now lives near Cincinnati with Kenney's mother, Karen. "So we signed up, my oldest three sons and myself, to do hunter's safety together. The youngest one took it later with his mom and we just got started and just did it by trial and error."

Shortly after completing their hunter's safety course, the "Bertz band of hunters" took to the Arizona desert for their first hunting experience. (Kenney grew up just north of Phoenix Arizona before the family finally moved to Cincinnati.) On their first hunting expedition, the novice hunting party scoured the arid wilderness for havalina, a small boar-like animal of the rodent family. Ken explained that they unfortunately did not see any havalina on their first trip, but somewhat ironically, they did see two whitetail deer.

"We had just gotten through hunter's safety," said Ken. "So we went out to this area. We had no idea where we were. When we went to havalina hunt, we saw two whitetail deer, but no havalina. The second time we went out, we went deer hunting up in the high mountains and saw havalina but no deer. So it was like, alright, this is going to be the kind of luck we're going to have at this."

Their luck quickly changed, however. On their next outing, the family trekked into the Arizona mountains looking for elk. Unlike their previous two expeditions, this time the Bertzs found what they were looking for. After Kenney's father shot and missed one elk, Kenney got his chance to put his 30 aught six rifle to use.

"My dad had missed one and I think it might have scared this one up toward me," said the Rhinos second-year man. "It ended up walking up right behind some trees and bushes 20 yards away from me. It's an absolute adrenalin rush when you're in that situation. Your heart's just racing to the point that you have to calm yourself down. My legs were shaking."

Kenney took a deep breath, locked his sights and fired.

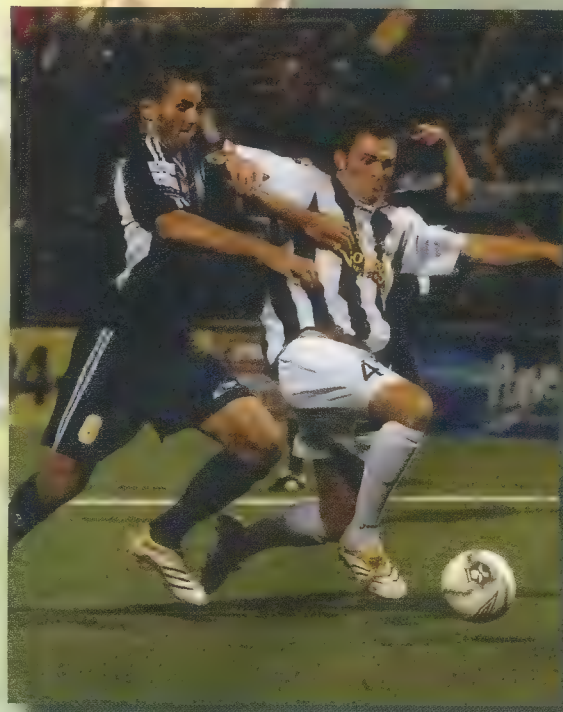

"It was an exciting experience," said the Rhinos' 2006 rookie of the year. "I ended up getting an elk the first time that my dad and brothers, and I went out big-game hunting."

Kenney's father shared his son's excitement almost too much.

"He drew first blood," said Ken of his son's first big game hunting success. "I was so excited for him that when I high-fived him, he complained for quite a while after, because I almost hurt his hand. There was no real damage. He told me about it later. He said, 'Dad, remember when you high-fived me? That really hurt.' I was cranked up for him. It was pretty exciting."

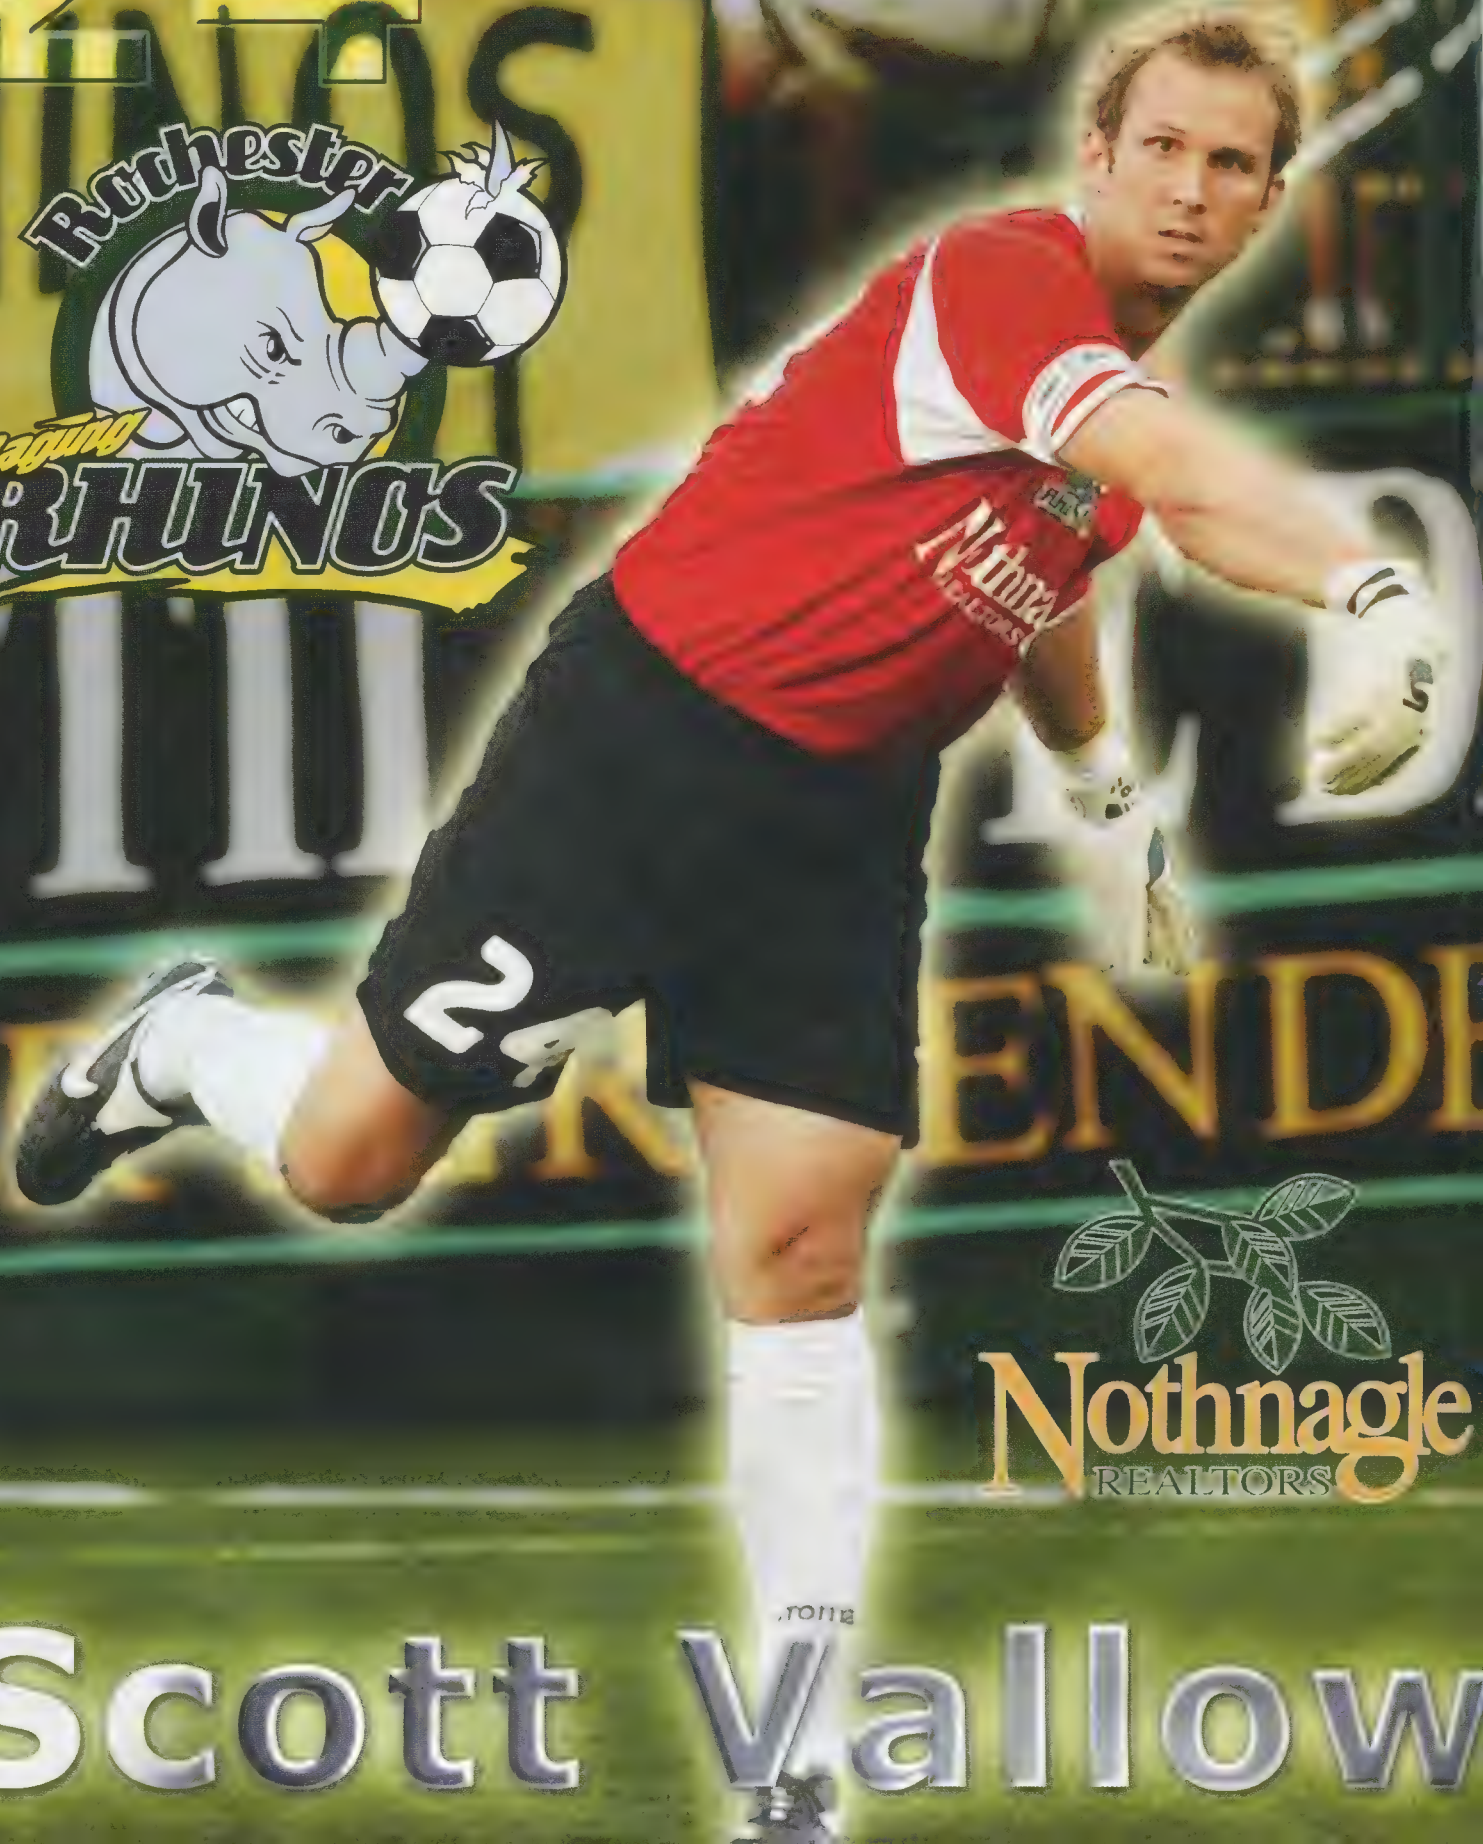

It is fortunate that Kenney's hand was not hurt too badly. Somewhat ironically, Bertz's hands are one of his biggest assets in a game where their use is generally not allowed. Bertz, however, has established himself as the Rhinos' primary throw-in specialist. Because of the lengthy range of his tosses, the 24-year-old defender has been used regularly for the team's throw-ins.

Laws of the Game

LAW 1: FIELD OF PLAY

LAW 2: BALL The ball is made of leather or other safe, approved material: 27 to 28 inches in circumference. 14 to 16 inches, inflated to a pressure of 9.0 to 10.5 psi.

LAW 3: NUMBER OF PLAYERS A maximum of 11 players on the field for each team. One of whom must be designated as a goalkeeper. Up to four substitutes may be used by each team.

LAW 4: PLAYERS EQUIPMENT Jersey, shorts, stockings, shin guards and shoes. The goalkeeper's jersey color must distinguish him from other players and the referee. A player may not wear anything dangerous to another player.

LAW 5: REFEREE One referee is appointed for each match. He is responsible for enforcement of the laws; serving as timekeeper; disciplining players; stopping the match if, in his opinion, a player has been seriously hurt; preventing persons other than the players and linesmen from entering the field without his permission. All decisions by the referee are final.

LAW 6: LINESMEN Two linesmen are appointed to assist the referee in controlling the match by indicating offside when a ball has crossed a touchline and which team should put it into play with a throw-in; when a ball has crossed a goal line and whether it should be put back into play with a goal kick or corner kick; when an infraction has been committed; and whether a goal has been scored fairly.

LAW 7: DURATION of the GAME Two equal periods of 45 minutes. The referee may extend the time for long or unusual delays, such as injury or time-wasting by a team. (Note: A-League rules call for a sudden-death overtime period when a match is tied after 105 minutes of regulation play.)

LAW 8: START of PLAY The team that wins the coin flip can either choose which end of the field it wishes to defend or take the kickoff. Each team must remain on its own half of the field and the defending players must be a minimum of ten yards away from the ball until it is kicked forward and rolled its full circumference. A goal cannot be scored directly from the kickoff. After a goal, the team scored upon kicks off. After halftime the kickoff is taken by the team that did not kick off to start the game. Drop ball; When the referee stops play for a reason other than a rule infraction or a delay such as a player injury, he restarts play by dropping the ball where the ball was when the play was stopped. A drop ball is not in play until it hits the ground.

LAW 9: BALL IN and OUT of PLAY The ball is out of play when (A) it has completely crossed the goal-line or touchline, whether on the ground or in the air, or (B) the game has been stopped by the referee. The ball is in play at all times from the beginning to the end of a half, including when it remains on the field after striking the referee, linesmen, goal post, crossbar, or corner flag; and after an assumed infringement of the laws, until the referee stops play.

LAW 10: METHOD of SCORING A goal is scored when the whole ball has passed over the goal line, between the goal posts and under the crossbar while it is legally in play.

LAW 11: OFFSIDE A player is in an offside position if he is nearer to his opponent's goal line than the ball, unless (A) he is in his own half of the field of play, or (B) there are at least two of his opponents as close or closer to their own goal.

A player is penalized for being in an offside position only if, at the moment the ball touches or is played by a teammate, he is (in the opinion of the referee) (A) interfering with play with an opponent, or (B) seeking to gain an advantage by being in that position. A player is not declared offside by the referee (A) merely because of his being in an offside position, or (B) if he receives the ball directly from a goal kick, corner kick, or throw-in, or when it has been dropped by the referee.

LAW 12: FOULS and MISCONDUCT A team whose player intentionally attempts or actually kicks, trips, jumps at, charges violently, charges from behind, strikes or spits at, holds or pushes an opponent, or handles the ball is penalized by a direct kick. Any one of these nine offenses committed in the penalty area by a defender results in the awarding of a penalty kick to the attacking team. A team whose player commits less flagrant fouls such as offside, dangerous play or obstruction is penalized by an indirect free kick. The referee may caution a player (or others) for persistent misconduct, dissent, ungentlemanly conduct or entering the field without permission; the offender is shown a yellow card. The referee also may send off (eject) a player (or others) for foul or abusive language, or persistent misconduct after receiving a caution. The player sent off the field may not be replaced.

LAW 13: FREE KICK A direct free kick from which a goal can be scored directly against the offending team; an indirect free kick from which a goal cannot be scored unless the ball has been touched by another player before entering the goal. In both cases, the offending team's player must be at least ten yards from the ball until the ball has been touched, and the ball must be still. (Note: A-League rules call for defenders to stand at least fifteen yards from the ball on all free kicks.)

LAW 14: PENALTY KICK A direct free kick from the penalty spot. All players except the player taking the kick and the opposing player taking the kick and the opposing goalkeeper must remain outside the penalty area until the ball is kicked. The defending goalkeeper may move laterally along the goal line prior to the striking of the ball, but he may not move forward until the ball is struck by the shooter.

LAW 15: THROW-IN The method for putting the ball back into play after it has wholly passed over the touchline. A player from the team that did not touch the ball last takes the throw-in from the point on the touchline where the ball exited the field; he throws by using both hands to deliver the ball from behind and over his head; a part of each foot is either on the touchline or on the ground outside the touchline. An indirect free kick will be awarded if a goalkeeper picks up the ball with his hands after receiving a throw-in from a teammate.

LAW 16: GOAL KICK The method for putting the ball back into play after it has wholly crossed the goal line after being touched by a player from the attacking team. A player from the team that was defending kicks the ball from his own goal area.

LAW 17: CORNER KICK The method for putting the ball back into play after it has wholly crossed the goal line after being last touched by a player from the defending team. A player from the attacking team kicks the ball from the corner nearest to where the ball exited the field.

Glossary of Terms

Advantage Clause

Applied by the referee when, in his opinion, calling a foul would give an advantage to the offending team. No foul is called and the referee signals "play on."

Boots

Another name for soccer cleats.

Center (Cross)

When the ball is passed from a wide area of the field to the penalty area.

Chip

A high pass that is lifted over the heads of an opponent.

Clear

Kicking the ball by a player in an attempt to get the ball out of their own penalty area.

Corner Kick

A direct kick taken by an attacking team from the corner of an opponents field. A corner kick is awarded when a defending team advances the ball past its own endline (not including a goal).

Defender

Player who ordinarily is positioned near his own goal behind the midfielders and forwards and whose primary responsibility is the prevention of the opponent from scoring. Also called a "fullback."

Direct Free Kick

Usually awarded after a foul, the ball is placed in a stationary position and may be kicked directly into the opponents goal without first being touched by another attacker. Corner kicks and penalty kicks are also direct free kicks.

Dribble

A way of advancing the ball by using the feet, keeping the ball close to the players body, allowing a player to change speed and direction easily.

Drop Ball

Ball dropped by the referee between two opposing players to restart a game after a play has been stopped for a no-penalty situation.

Goal Kick

Indirect free kick taken by a defending player from the defending team's goal area. A goal kick is awarded when a ball was last touched by the attacking team before going over the defending team's goal line (but not into the goal).

Half-Volley

When the ball is kicked after it bounces off of the ground.

Hand Ball

A ball touched illegally by a player's hand or arm.

Heading

Use of the head to shoot, pass, clear or control the ball.

Indirect Free Kick

Awarded to a team after a minor infraction, the ball is placed in a stationary position and may not be kicked directly into the opponent's goal without first being touched by another attacker.

Kickoff

A ball placed in the center spot at midfield and kicked forward by an attacking player, used to start the game at the beginning of each half and after a goal has been scored. A goal cannot be scored directly off the kickoff.

Linesman

Two officials, each equipped with a flag, who assist the referee from the touchlines by signaling offsides when a ball has gone out of bounds and when a foul has been committed. The referee may choose not to act on a lineman's call.

Mark

The act of guarding an attacking player.

Midfielder

Player who ordinarily is positioned in front of the defenders and behind the forwards, whose primary responsibility is to create a link between the defenders and forwards. Also called a "halfback."

Obstruction

Action of a player who impedes an opponent by standing in or moving into his path without attempting to play the ball.

Offsides

Position of an attacking player if he is between his opponent's goal line and the ball when the ball is played unless he is on his own half of the field or two opponents are no farther from the goal line than the attacking player. A player cannot be offside if he receives the ball directly from a corner kick, goal kick, throw-in, or drop ball situation.

Overlap

An attacking run by a defender that carries him past his own midfielders.

Penalty Kick

Direct free kick from the penalty spot after a major foul has been committed by the defending team in its own penalty area. The opposing goalkeeper must remain stationary on his goal line between the goal posts and other players must be outside the penalty area; the ball is kicked by an attacking player.

Pitch

Another name for the playing field.

Professional Foul

A foul, usually hard and from behind, in which a defender intentionally takes down a forward to disrupt a clear scoring opportunity, usually a breakaway. The "professional foul" usually results in a yellow or red card.

Red Card (Ejection)

A disciplinary action taken by the referee against a player for violent conduct and/or serious foul play, foul or abusive language, or persistent misconduct after receiving a caution (yellow card). The offender is shown a red card and sent off the field. He may not be replaced by another player.

Referee

The official in charge of the match. Primary responsibilities include protecting the players and keeping the official time.

Save

A ball caught, deflected or otherwise prevented by the goalkeeper from going into the goal.

Shield

A dribbler who prevents an opponent from taking the ball by keeping himself between an opponent and the ball.

Shoot-Out

The tie-breaking procedure after regulation time. In a shoot-out, each team has five opportunities to score a goal in a one-on-one situation with the opposing goalkeeper. Each one-on-one situation begins with the goalkeeper in goal and the offensive player 35 yards away from the goal line. The player has five seconds to dribble the ball and shoot on goal.

Stopper

A central defender whose primary responsibility is to mark the opposing center forward or striker.

Sweeper

A defender who is free to roam in front of and/or behind his teams defensive line.

Tackle

An attempt to dispossess an attacker of the ball. A common tackle is the slide tackle, which involves a sliding attempt to kick the ball away.

Through Pass

Pass that travels toward the goal between two or more defenders to a teammate, putting him in a position to shoot.

Throw-In

A throw executed by an attacking player from outside the touchline. A throw-in is awarded against a team that last touched the ball before it crossed the touchline. The player taking the throw-in must throw the ball onto the field over his head using both hands; he must also keep both feet on the ground either outside or on the touchline.

Trap

The use of the foot, thigh, chest, etc., by a player to bring a ball under control.

Volley

Kick taken before a ball bounces on the ground.

Wall

A line of three or more players positioned at least ten yards from the ball; used to help defend against a free kick.

Winger

An outside forward. Outside defenders are sometimes called "wingbacks."

Yellow Card (Caution)

A disciplinary action taken by a referee against a player for the persistent misconduct, dissent, ungentlemanly conduct or entering the field without permission. The offender is shown a yellow card, a second offense brings a red card and the player is ejected from the match.

2006 Season Recap

In 2006, the Rochester Raging Rhinos finished a memorable year in their inaugural season at the newly constructed PAETEC Park in downtown Rochester, NY. The Rhinos completed the United Soccer Leagues First Division regular season with a 13-4-11 record. Second-year Head Coach Laurie Calloway overcame the loss of several veteran leaders, and three of the top four leading scorers from the 2005 season, to lead Rochester to a second place finish for the second consecutive season.

After a two-week training camp in sunny Cary, North Carolina, the Rhinos opened the season with seven straight road matches while PAETEC Park was receiving its finishing touches. Rochester tallied 13 goals while only surrendering five in an 11-game unbeaten streak to start the year. It was a 1-0 defeat at the hands of rival Montreal on June 28 that snapped the second longest unbeaten streak in Rhinos history. On July 14, Rochester welcomed former Brazilian legend Romário and the Miami FC to PAETEC Park. In an epic and thrilling battle, it was former MLS star Ricky Lewis that notched a goal in stoppage time to top the expansion franchise 5-4. Rochester went on to record 11 ties in 2006, setting a team record during a season where there were 88 ties in the league.

The Rhinos' successful season led to their 11th straight postseason appearance, complete with a first-round bye. On a goal by midfielder Greg Howes in game one of the two-game, aggregate goal semifinal round against the Charleston Battery, the Rhinos advanced to the USL First Division Championship for the first time since 2001.

The Rhinos hosted the Vancouver Whitecaps in the USL-1 Championship game at PAETEC Park on September 30. The Whitecaps fought off a ferocious Rhinos attack to start the game and outlasted Rochester 3-0 on a rain-soaked pitch, winning their first title since 1979. The win marked the first time in league history that a road team won the championship. Rochester was after its fourth league championship, winning titles in 1998, 2000 and 2001. The Rhinos now boast a 25-13-8 all-time record in the playoffs.

The 2006 Rhinos were led by team captain and Second Team All-League goalkeeper Scott Vallow. The veteran goalkeeper led the entire USL in wins (13), shutouts (14) and saves (106) while setting several personal records along the way. Vallow moved into first all-time in Rhinos' regular season history in ties (19) and shutouts (38). Vallow was one of only two players in the USL to play every minute of every game this season. Vallow, defender Frankie Sanfilippo and midfielder John Ball were named to the 2006 USL-1 All-Star team. Laurie Calloway was named a coach of the All-Star game held in Cary, NC. Rookie defender Kenney Bertz helped anchor one of the stingiest defenses in the league, surrendering 21 goals in 28 games. Bertz was also named Second Team All-League and a finalist for USL Rookie of the Year. First-year Rhino Matthew Delicâte was the Rhinos' scoring leader, registering 19 points (8+3) in 28 games. He was named the USL Player of the Week for Week 5 after scoring the game-winning goal in a 1-0 victory in Portland. The late season acquisition of forward Chris Bagley helped the Rhinos close the season with a seven-game unbeaten streak. Bagley joined the First Division powerhouse after a successful season with the USL-2 Wilmington Hammerheads. Bagley, a former member of the MLS New England Revolution, was named a finalist for the USL-2 Most Valuable Player prior to joining the Rhinos.

PAETEC Park was the site of many electric and unforgettable moments in 2006. The Rhinos hosted English Coca-Cola Championship League side Sheffield Wednesday in an exhibition match on July 22. Sheffield Wednesday topped the Rhinos 2-0 in the match as they closed out their tour of the United States. Rochester's run in the 2006 Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup was a brief one. A 5-4 defeat of the USL-2 New Hampshire Phantoms set the stage for a match with the MLS New England Revolution at PAETEC Park on August 2. 120 minutes of scoreless play preceded a penalty kick shootout where New England advanced, winning 5-4. The Rhinos are the only USL team to win the U.S. Open Cup, taking the title in 1999 after defeating four MLS opponents.

The bar has been set for the 2007 Rhinos. Playing in one of the top soccer-specific stadiums in the country, the Rhinos will look to continue with their winning ways and make the drive to once again reign as the USL Champions.

FUTBOL IN HONDURAS

Dictatorships, military rule and banana power have reigned over the country of Honduras since it gained its independence from Spain in 1821. With a literacy rate of 76.2% and an average daily income of just a couple of dollars a day, many children grow up without the basic needs of food, clothing and shelter. For many in Honduras, there is little hope of escaping deprivation and indigence, but as Rhinos rookie goalkeeper Hector Zapata knows well, there is something else that Hondurans find hope in.

Futbol.

Zapata left his mother, Alba, and his brother, René, in Honduras to come to the United States to attend college at Oral Roberts University in the summer of 2000. Prior to making the move to North America, Zapata had spent his childhood playing soccer all of the time.

"Soccer in Honduras is number one," said Zapata. "When I was growing up, I used to play until one o'clock in the morning."

Zapata says that all that he and his friends needed to occupy their time was a nylon ball, a couple pairs of shoes for goals and an empty street. Soccer is just something that every kid plays in Honduras says Zapata.

Because of the economic state of many households in the impoverished nation where more than half of the citizens live below the poverty line, organized youth leagues supply the balls and goals required to play the game. After the leagues have taken care of supplying the equipment, there is only one thing left for the kids to do according to Zapata: show up and play.

In the United States, children have infinite options on how to spend their time after school. With music ensembles, different sports and homework, youth soccer has quite a bit of competition to overcome. Zapata explained that in Honduras, they have other sports, such as basketball and volleyball, but soccer is leagues above where those other sports are in popularity. Soccer is not just a sport for many children in Honduras. Instead, it is a way out of the destitution that occupies too many homes in the third-world.

Soccer is so popular in Honduras that despite the extraordinarily high rate of poverty, the cities and towns continue to build state-of-the-art stadiums to house their teams. Zapata's hometown of La Ceiba has a stadium that is home to Victoria, La Ceiba's local futbol club. Zapata says that many of the stadiums in Honduras are much like Rochester's PAETEC Park, while others are little more than a field surrounded by a fence.

Protective fences surround nearly all of the fields in Honduras, and according to Zapata, keeping the fans away from the players and referees is necessary for everyone's safety.

"There is no way that people in Honduras would be able to sit and watch the game without a fence separating them from the field without somebody throwing something at the players or referees," Zapata said. "There have been incidences where the fans have gotten mad at the referee and have gone out and taken it out on his car. The referee might come out after the match, and his car would be upside down."

Zapata is not worried about objects flying from the crowd while playing at Rochester's PAETEC Park this season. He knows that here at PAETEC Park, the only things raining down from the stands will be the sounds of beating drums, buzzing horns and lyrical chants that are typical of Rochester fans. Zapata loves the idea of playing in a place where the fans are so passionate and knowledgeable about the game of soccer.

"I know the tradition and love that the Rochester fans have for the game," he said. "I'm proud to be able to play in a soccer town."

Kenney's first six-point elk would not be his last, as he would eventually tag one more elk and two deer. Although he used a rifle to shoot both elk, Kenney used a compound bow and arrow to bring in both deer. He says that even though he began hunting with a rifle, he now prefers, and mostly hunts with his bow.

each other's company," said Kenney. "When we end up going out, we usually stay over night and when you don't have TV and those kinds of distractions you remember that you always have each other.

"We just sit around, play cards and visit. It has definitely been good for the relationship between my brothers and me, and especially for my dad and me."

whenever we went camping or hunting, on the way out, not only would we clean up our campsite, but our goal was to always leave it better than when we got there.

"As we would go out of the camping area, the boys would sit in the bed of the truck and they'd tap the cab if they saw trash, and they'd hop out and clean it up and try to do something to keep the forest right, because we all know there are enough people out there who don't care, and leave it a wreck."

If Kenney cleans up the Rhinos' backfield this season the way that his father taught him to take care of a campsite, Rochester will likely once again possess one of the stingiest defenses in the league. And if his soccer shot develops to be as true as his bow shot, he could be deadly to opposing goalkeepers.

Kenney and his three younger brothers, Kris (22), Kyle (20), and Keith (18) have been hunting with their father each fall. Their mother has even joined in a few times, but as Ken explained, Ohio's cold winter this year was an understandable deterrent for Mrs. Bertz.

"We've been trying hard to get mom out," Ken explained. "It's a little tougher to get her out there. She's a fan, but she doesn't really like the cold. So it has definitely become a struggle to get her out."

"It requires a little more skill and you have to get the deer in closer to you in order to get a shot," he said. "It's a little bit more of a challenge."

The Bertzs enjoy the challenge of hunting, but they also enjoy the time that it provides for them to spend together without the distractions of everyday life.

"The coolest part of hunting is going out and spending time together and enjoying

Not only does hunting provide a way for the Bertz family to spend some quality time together, it has also been a way for Ken to teach his children the importance of taking care of the environment.

"What we tried to instill in the boys is, this isn't something where you just go out and get and get and get," he said. "It's something where you're supposed to return something, and our policy was

KEVIN BURNS CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY PLAYING GALAXY

By: Justin Swackhamer

How do you celebrate your birthday? Maybe you have a quiet dinner with your family and close friends, or perhaps you enjoy letting loose and spending the night out on the town. Whatever your inclination, you probably will not spend your next birthday playing the Los Angeles Galaxy. That is exactly what Rhinos rookie midfielder Kevin Burns did on April 22nd.

Burns, who turned 22, was invited by Rhinos Head Coach Laurie Calloway, along with three other players, to tryout for the Rhinos following the team's combine in Boca Raton, Fla. early in the Rhinos preseason. He then joined the team for their preseason USL-MLS Challenge in Puerto Rico, where the Rhinos faced the Galaxy and FC Dallas. After lasting through the Rhinos' spring training, the 6-foot-1 midfielder committed to Rochester, signing a one-year deal with the Rhinos on April 10. He says that so far his experience in Rochester has been exciting, and he is thrilled to be a part of such a tradition-laden franchise.

"I'm excited to be here in Rochester and part of such a talented team," said Burns. "I know Coach Calloway and the management has put together a championship caliber team, and I hope that I am able to contribute to their effort."

The Rhinos preseason match against the Galaxy was not Burns' first match against an MLS team this season. The Greenfield, Ind., native was selected by the Columbus Crew in the fourth round (50th overall) of the 2007 MLS SuperDraft and spent a brief spell with the team during their preseason in early February. The Crew played MLS clubs DC United, Real Salt Lake, the Chicago Fire and the Kansas City Wizards during Burns' stay with the team.

"It was exciting playing against MLS teams and I hope that we get a chance to do that during the US Open Cup this season," said Burns, who spent four seasons with the University of Connecticut prior to joining the Rhinos. "Judging by our play in the preseason tournament, there's no reason that we can't compete with those teams."

The Rhinos were competitive in their exhibition matches against L.A. and Dallas, dropping a 3-2 decision to the Galaxy, while suffering a 2-0 setback to FCD.

As a high school senior, Burns attended the IMG Academy in Bradenton, Fla., where he earned Best Attacking Player honors and was named to the U.S. Under-18 National Team. From Bradenton, the skilled midfielder went on to UConn in 2002, where he registered four goals and eight assists in 65 games over his four-year career with the Huskies.

Between the commencement of the Rhinos combine and the beginning of the Rhinos season, Burns had to meet many new faces and gathered countless first impressions. He says that his initial impression of Rhinos Head Coach Laurie Calloway was that he is stern, but he genuinely cares about his players.

"He's cares about his players, but he's strict," said Burns. "He's much more old-school. He spent a lot of hours helping the other guys out that didn't make the team in the preseason, which many coaches might not have done."

Burns says that he is aware not only of the talented team that Calloway has assembled, but also of the tradition of excellence that the Rhinos organization possesses and the success that they have had in the past.

"The Rhinos are one of the most dominating teams in the USL," he said. "Everyone knows about them. Their stadium is pretty awesome and their fans are known as being very supportive. At least, that's what I hear."

So, the word is out.

LAURIE CALLOWAY BEHIND THE RHINOS' BENCH FOR NEXT THREE SEASONS

Rochester Raging Rhino soccer fans should get used to seeing Laurie Calloway behind the bench at PAETEC Park. The veteran head coach was re-signed to a three-year deal this winter, which ties him to the soccer club through 2009. In his two seasons with USL First Division Rhinos, Calloway Salty Dogs put together an impressive 10-0-2 streak to finish in third place, one spot ahead of the Rhinos. The streak helped propel the team to the A-League's Eastern Conference Finals.

"We're thrilled to have Laurie on board for three more years. He's committed to the high expectations we have here and he's as motivated as anyone to bring success to this club," said Matthew Ford, Executive Vice President for the Rhinos.

Calloway also spent time in Major League Soccer, when he was named the head coach for the San Jose Clash (now Earthquakes). He coached that team for two seasons (1996-97), compiling a 20-27-0 record.

has compiled a 28-11-17 record and has led the club to two trips to the USL First Division Playoffs.

"I'm delighted and extremely excited to commit my future to the Rhinos organization and look forward to bringing further success to the club in the coming years," said Calloway. "The stability of a long term contract gives me the opportunity to take this club and these players forward and hopefully bring Championships back to Rochester."

Last season, he was one of three finalists for the USL Coach of the Year, as he guided the Rhinos to the First Division Championship Game. During the regular season, Rochester earned a 13-4-11 mark and secured the second seed in the playoffs. The Rhinos advanced to the finals by defeating Charleston in the Semifinals. The trip to the finals was Calloway's first appearance in a title match since 1991.

Calloway was named the second head coach in Rhino's team history on December 16, 2004. In his two-year tenure in Rochester, he has continued the winning tradition of the franchise by extending its consecutive playoff streak to 11 seasons. In the team's storied history, the Rhinos have won three A-League titles (1998, 2000, 2001) and one U.S. Open Cup (1999).

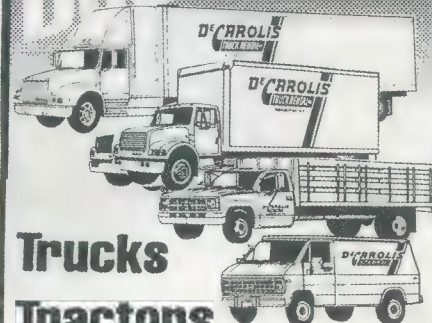

Prior to arriving in Rochester, the native of Birmingham, England, spent two seasons with the Syracuse Salty Dogs (A-League), where he accumulated a record was 26-20-10. In 2004, the

In 2001-02, Calloway returned to the professional ranks with the Des Moines Menace, a fourth-division team in the USL's Premier Development League. In his first season, he led the team to a 15-0-3 mark, only the third undefeated season in USL amateur history. During the 2002 season, the Menace nearly knocked Rochester out of the U.S. Open Cup. The Rhinos narrowly escaped with a 3-2 overtime win at Frontier Field. The Menace won the Heartland Division during the 2002 PDL season. Calloway also coached the California Surf (1981) and Seattle Sounders (1983) in the NASL. In 1985, he won his first championship as a coach, leading the San Jose Earthquakes to the Western Alliance Soccer Challenge Cup.

He is also no stranger to the pitch as a player, having appeared in over 500 league and cup matches in England and the United States. He spent the early part of his playing career in England with clubs including, Wolverhampton Wanderers (1960-63), Rochdale (1964-68), Blackburn Rovers (1968-70), Southport (1970-71) and York City (1971-73). After a solid career as a defender in England, Calloway tested the waters of North American and came over to play with the San Jose Earthquakes of the NASL (1974-1979). He was a two-time NASL All-Star. In 1975, he was the Team MVP and a First Team All-Star.

FORMER ATLANTA ASSISTANT JOINS RHINOS COACHING STAFF

The Rochester Raging Rhinos welcomed former Atlanta Silverbacks assistant coach Jukka Masalin to the team's coaching staff on March 30th. Masalin will serve as the Rhinos' assistant coach under Head Coach Laurie Calloway.

"We're excited to add Jukka to our coaching team," said Rhinos Executive Vice President Matthew Ford. "His wealth of experience in many top European leagues as a player combined with his more recent coaching experience make him a great addition to our staff. Jukka's knowledge and approach to the game has made an immediate impact on our players, and we feel fortunate to be able to bring him on board."

Masalin comes to the Rhinos organization with more than 17 years of youth, college and professional coaching experience. The 33-year-old Lahti, Finland, native has several soccer coaching licenses, including the Finnish UEFA B-coaching license, Finnish UEFA C-coaching license and US UEFA B-coaching license.

Most recently, Masalin spent three years (2004-06) as an assistant coach for the Atlanta Silverbacks of the United Soccer Leagues

First Division. There, he was responsible for everything from goalkeeper training and evaluation to arranging team travel, budgeting, recruiting and scouting. Last season, he served as the team's youth program co-director and

"We spent the preseason with Jukka as our assistant, and he proved himself in every way," said Calloway. "He is a former goalkeeper and a goalkeeper coach, so he will also take over those responsibilities for us. Jukka has good experience, talent and initiative, and will be a great addition to our coaching staff."

"This is an amazing opportunity to work with a fantastic team and organization," said Masalin. "As a young professional coach, this is an excellent chance for me to work and learn in a great environment. It was an honor to be considered for this job, and to now be given a chance to be a part of this organization is very exciting. Rochester has a great tradition of excellence and winning, and I am looking forward to contributing further to what has already been established here."

ACL Injury

ACL stands for the anterior cruciate ligament of the knee. It is a term heard frequently in today's sports world. The ACL is one of the major ligaments of the knee and provides stability to the front of the knee joint. Studies suggest that ACL injuries can be prevented if the muscles that surround the knee are trained to improve flexibility, strength, and motor control. Proper conditioning is essential for injury prevention.
